

of Accreditation: Ensuring Authentic Halaal 250: The Power Certification

Description

has served the community for s̄yrtnuoc As the leading Halaal certifying authority, SANHA the highest standards in Halaal certification.almost three decades, striving to maintain training, hosting and participating in commitment extends beyond ongoing upskilling, This educational outreach programs & seminars. philosophy of employing s̄ĀHNAS various ethics is crucial, as is its embrace of individuals who uphold the highest religious talents as a vital element of its operations. accreditations

Meaning and Purpose of Accreditation:

is a formal third-party validation of an competence s̄noitazinagro Accreditation ot̄ytilauq certain standards of steem̄fahtperform specific tasks such as Halaal meets recognised international standards, certification. It ensures that the organization integrity, confidentiality, impartiality and demonstrating its commitment to quality, transparency.

Process of Accreditation

process involves a thorough assessment of an systems, s̄noitazinagro The accreditation technical, management and Sharia personnel by an procedures and competence of accrediting body. This includes evaluating the policies, s̄noitazinagro independent records as well as conducting on-site audits and documentation, facilities, equipment and witnessing certification activities.

It is renewed periodically to ensure that once achieved, accreditation is not permanent. The quality of the program is maintained.

Advantages and Benefits of Accreditation

1. Global Recognition and market access :With rapid globalization and the such as some members amongst the 57 nation promotion of trade, many countries, )OIC(, are developing and implementing Organisation of Islamic Cooperation products entering their markets. Accreditation standards and requirements for Halaal bodies facilitates access to these markets. by recognized
2. Differentiation:is highly aware of the Islamic dietary syadoTMuslim consumer via independent and reliable Halaal assurance. imperative, and demand authenticity of an organization provide a good measure for Accreditation credentials the competencies of Halaal certifiers, providing differentiation and confidence in and allowing consumers to make informed choices. assurance
3. Improved Quality:promotes continuous improvement, driving Accreditation their systems and processes on an ongoing certifying bodies to review and enhance basis.
4. Transparency and Public Scrutiny :Accreditation, coupled with transparency, is open public meetings and mechanisms such as our upheld by SANHA through allows for public scrutiny and as a mark of Impartiality Committee. This transparency to maintaining the highest standards in assurance, demonstrates our commitment Halaal certification.
5. Integrity and Independence :neutrality and independence of auditors are the The of the review process. Under the principle of backbone custodiet ipsos siuQ ?sedotsuc, (?sevlesmeht )Who will guard the guards one cannot self-audit. providing vital assurance to consumers and Accreditation ensures impartiality, businesses.

Accreditation Milestones: sĀHNAS

Africa to have achieved formal accreditation and SANHA was the first Halaal body in from renowned international bodies: currently holds accreditation

- Saudi Arabia Ā Gulf Accreditation Centre )GAC(

- International Accreditation Centre (IAC) (UAE - Emirates)

SANHA has achieved official recognition from the In addition to formal accreditation, / parastatal agencies: International Accreditation Centre (IAC) (UAE - Emirates)

- Saudi Arabia - Saudi Food & Drug Agency (SFDA)
- Qatar - Ministry of Public Health (MoPH)
- Jabatan Kemajuan Islam Malaysia (JAKIM) (Malaysia)
- Singapore - Majlis Ugama Islam Singapura (MUIS)
- Central Islamic Committee of Thailand (CICOT) (Thailand)
- Badan Penyelenggara Jaminan Produk Halal (BPJPH) (Indonesia)

to our dedication to uphold the SANHA accreditation milestones serve as a testament assurance to Muslim consumers and establishments highest Halal standards, providing alike.